Description

Fish Containers Boxes

Technical specification

The fish industry at all times has been quite popular and relevant. The sea product, which is so useful to each of us, was not always possible to deliver to large cities, which were located in the depths of this or that continent. In a word, far from the land. After all, the fish quickly disappears, and it must be stored under certain conditions. It was then that they began to think about this task and try to solve it. The penultimate innovation was wooden pallets for fish, bulky and inconvenient. However, they were replaced by modern lightweight fish containers, which are reliable.
